Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well here it is 1931, and what we are going to do about it. Don't look like we are going to be able to prevent it.

That one thing the Lord said did regulate. He fixed so one year would follow another one whether you had a calendar or not. He left us in doubt about everything else. We don't know when it's going to rain, snow, sunshine or anything. We don't know when we are to get sick, rich or die. We don't know who is going to follow us on when we are gone. We don't know what chance the Democrats are going to have at any given time. We don't know what Hoover and this Senate is going to do, we don't know what will happen to Prohibition, we don't know when or where the next war will break out.

We sure are dumb. But He did let us know what day followed what day, and made it so it would happen, no matter what happened. There has been 1930 of these Same New Years roll around just since we been reckoning time, and I reckon a couple of million before that, kinder in proportion to whether you believe in Noah and his Ark, or the old money swinging by the tail theory. But never mind how we all got here. What we got to do these hard times is to worry about how we are going to stick here as long as we can without getting hungry.

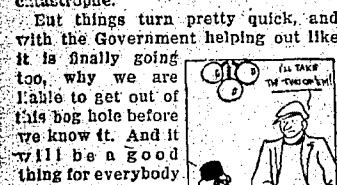

We got to make some resolutions as well as interest and tax payments in this joyful season. Its the starting of a new year of trials and tribulations, and if everybody that does anything is caught it will be mostly trials. We have just about broke the record when it comes to having done devilment during this last year. There has been more people and more commandments broke in 1930 than in any year since away back when old Sodom and Gomorrah was the local New York and Chicago of its day.

We haven't had such a bad year in comparison to years we used to have, but we have had a disappointing year. For the last eight or ten years, we have been just going like a house afire, and we couldn't see any reason why we shouldn't keep right on burning. We didn't see how we could ever run out of fuel. Our tastes were acquired on credit, and we wanted to keep on enjoying em on credit. But a Guy knocks on the back door during the year 1930 and says, "Here, pay for the old radio and we will haul down your aerial." "Get out of that bath tub we got to take it back." "Get out of that Hoot Nanny, you been driving it without payments long enough."

Well that was a sort of a jar. The man talked so nice when he sold it to us, we had no idea he would ever want it back. Why he had kinder got used to all this and took it as a matter of fact. If you never had a fifty cents cigar why a Nickle one is mighty satisfying, but let you get to puffing on a real one for awhile and the old Nickle one is going to be mighty nauseating.

You see in the old days there was mighty few things bought on credit, your taste had to be in harmony with your income, for it had never been any other way. I think buying Autos on credit has driven more folks to seek the Revolver as a regular means of livelihood than any other one contributing cause. All you need to make a deferred payment on anything now is an old rusty gun. I don't reckon there has ever been a time in American homes when there was as much junk in em that didn't really belong in em as there is today. Even our own old Shack has got more junk in it that has never been used, or looked at than a storage place. Most everybody has got more than they used to have, but they haven't got as much as they thought they ought to have. So its all a disappointment more than a catastrophe.

But things turn pretty quick, and with the Government helping out like it is finally going too, why we are able to get out of this bog hole before we know it. And it will be a good thing for everybody in the long run. We was just getting the idea that nothing could go down in price, we thought the only way it could go was up. Just buy it and hold it a day or no that's all we thought there was to finance. Well from now on you going to find some mighty careful folks. A Salesman knocking on our door now with some new fangled Pea knife is going to have to be mighty good to even get in the door much less make a sale. The Lord just kinder looked us over and says, "Wait you folks going too fast, slow up and look yourself over, a year of silent meditation will do you good." Then when you start again you will know you got to get it by work and not by speculation." So the old year just gone is liable to prove the long run a mighty beneficial year after all. It may bring us back to our senses.

GRAYLING READY FOR WINTER SPORTS

TOBOGGAN SLIDE OPENED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Jack Frost has been doing his stuff for several days past so that now the Winter Sports committee say they are ready for action.

The big toboggan slide is in operation and was opened last night with a big crowd of people—old and young—there to enjoy this most exhilarating sport. Toboggans were flying down the slippery slide at a terrific rate of speed and everyone was happy.

The sports committee say that everything is going to be better than ever before and, judging by the many inquiries that have been coming in, there are many awaiting the time for the winter sports to begin.

Everyone knows that when Grayling does things that they do it with all their might and that goes for winter sports as well. Everything looks like a big season this year.

The Wayside Inn of Mrs. Alonzo Collier will be open every day and evening ready to serve lunches and as a place in which the public may stop in to get warm or rest. Everyone will be welcome to make that place headquarters.

Tell your friends that the season is on and all join in to enjoy it.

ASK LEGISLATURE FOR SANATORIUM

Final steps for presentation of Northern Michigan's bid for a state tuberculosis sanatorium before the 1931 legislature will be taken at a meeting in the City Hall, Lansing, at 10 a. m. on January 27, directors of the Northern Michigan Sanatorium Association decided at a conference in Grayling on December 30.

The Sanatorium Association was formed on August 27 to advance the cause of a sanatorium for that portion of the Lower Peninsula lying north of the southern boundary of Oceana, Newaygo, Iosco, Ionia, Midland, and Bay counties. Representatives appointed by twenty-three county boards of supervisors in this area organized the Association, of which J. C. McLean, Pellston, is chairman and Ray McKinley, Gaylord, secretary.

Action looking toward gaining solid support for the sanatorium measure from members of the legislature representing the interested counties, is expected to be taken at the January 27 meeting. Points to be included in the sanatorium measure, which are being outlined by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association at the request of the Sanatorium Association, will also be considered at this meeting.

The movement for a northern tuberculosis hospital is based on the fact that the distance to the state sanatorium at Howell is too great to allow counties in the northern part of the state to secure their proportionate benefit from this institution. In addition, present sanatorium accommodations are inadequate, causing long delays in the admission of those who apply for treatment.

BOARD GRANTS RETIRING PROSECUTOR ROOM IN COURT HOUSE

When the Board of Supervisors resumed their session Tuesday morning for several days past so that now the Winter Sports committee say they are ready for action.

Mr. Insley stated that it was understood that owing to the small salary allowed the prosecutor for his services that he should be given office room where he might practice his profession as well as attend to the legal affairs of the county. And further that he did not believe that it was quite fair to him to permit Mr. Nellist to continue to retain an office in the building in competition with him.

Mr. Insley claimed that as the circuit court commissioner of the county it was proper that he should be afforded office room in which to draw up his papers and to keep his official records, and that if he was not privileged to continue his office in the county building that it would be necessary for the Board of Supervisors to provide an office elsewhere outside of the court house.

Mr. Insley maintained that the duties of Circuit Court Commissioner were very light and claimed that a commissioner was not required to draw up papers as that work was always looked after by the attorneys.

Any cases that might have to come before him, and that all that was required was a court room whenever he had to hear cases. There is no salary attached to that office, and the commissioner is paid for his services in fees. He acts in the capacity of the Circuit Judge during his absence from the court.

Mr. Nellist claimed that it was his duty to, whenever necessary, issue injunctions and attend to other matters that required an office in which to carry on his work.

Mr. Insley stated that inasmuch as Mr. Nellist has been offered two rooms in which to conduct the affairs of his office that he too should be given the same privilege. Mr. Nellist explained how it came about that he occupied the second room, saying that at the time the Board of Supervisors occupied the southwest corner room that they used his typewriter and that the machine was in that office so much of the time that he frequently did his work in that room to save the trouble of carrying the machine back into his office so often and that finally he occupied that office quite as much as he did his original office.

He claimed that one room had always been amply large enough for his work as prosecutor.

Members of the board asked many questions and looked up the records and found that last June they had granted the Commissioner of Schools the right to share the southwest room with the prosecutor. That seemed to bring on another problem with which to contend. The board informed Mr. Insley and Mr. Nellist that they would consider the matter and give their answer sometime that day. It seems that that body has the right to grant or reject any propositions regarding the occupancy of the court house.

Later in the day the board voted five to one in favor of permitting Mr. Nellist to occupy one of the rooms in the court house as his office. Mr. Insley has been occupying the law office of Geo. L. Alexander and says that, under the circumstances, that he will continue his office at that place.

A room that receives a cool north light might have cream-colored walls, and printed linen or cretonne draperies with orange predominating on a soft, warm, brown background, combined with sheer orange-colored glass curtains to furnish the necessary brightness. Elsewhere in the room the orange tone could be repeated. For example, the cretonne could be used for covering an upholstered chair, or for a cushion in a plain brown chair or sofa. Too much of a vivid color should not be used.

TEXT OF BRUCKER'S INAUGURAL SPEECH

Lansing, Jan. 1.—(U.P.)—Following is the complete text of Governor Brucker's inaugural address:

"In this solemn moment there comes a new 'call to the colors.' The honor of serving the commonwealth as its chief executive is a privilege of first magnitude, for which I express the most profound gratitude and pledge sincere devotion. This to me is an hour for deep humility. It is not one of ceremonial pomp, but one of serious dedication. It is not a time for doleful apprehension, but for courageous determination. In this moment, differences of faction, creed, wealth and even of political party are all leveled and forgotten while the common good becomes our sole guide. A new administration is being launched. Good government is our sole objective. My earnest prayer is for wisdom to measure up to this high responsibility.

"We are in the midst of a critical period in the life of both state and nation. Economic depression has laid its withering hand upon the arm of prosperity. Unemployment, with its hand maidens, sickness and poverty, has stalked our door, while courage has for the moment been overwhelmed.

Return of Prosperity.

"Yet there remains an aliding faith in the early return of prosperity. We have a splendid commonwealth, with boundless resources. The incoming administration of state government must sound the keynote of progress. It must be one always state-minded and with a perspective of all of Michigan's needs. The material must unite with social and economic progress to secure symmetrical growth. Our highways, institutions, natural resources and waterways must be advanced, but so, too, must the welfare of our people to whom problems of social and economic nature are closely related.

"Motion must not be confounded with progress. Progress must not be measured by the amount of legislation so much as by the character of the administration of existing statutes by the regular agencies of the state. Only when administration fails should we turn to legislation. Sincere activity in the administration of governmental duties is all that is required in most instances, and it must be insisted upon. Public services must be no sinecure. It must be dignified by earnest enthusiasm.

"Nothing affects our people more than taxation. The cost of state government has been the least of any, yet the combined cost of state and local government has steadily mounted to the point where a crisis has been reached. The burden has become oppressive and unequally distributed. The return of tax delinquents to the state is only matched by the arrogance of new demands for public expenditure. This must not go on unchecked. The time has come for retrenchment. The state must take the leadership. There must be no answer to all—a sound program of strict and rigid economy in all governmental expenditures. We must get back to that old-fashioned remedy called 'kitchen economy.' Reduction in taxation can come only when strict economy has actually been accomplished.

All Desire Economy

"There will be opposition to a program of this kind. Everyone supports a policy of governmental economy in the abstract. When it strikes some personal interest or entrenches itself about some political patronage, the real test of sincerity comes. The people of Michigan have spoken in support of an earnest endeavor to reduce state costs. Let us sternly face realities and take the first decisive step in accomplishing tax reduction. When that point is reached it must be recognized that at least a portion of the burden should be shifted from real property.

"We must not be swayed by those who have unreservedly committed themselves for or against some pet scheme. Rather let us be guided by the soundness, the wisdom and the fairness of the plan. Until government costs, both state and local, have been pared to a minimum, intelligent tax revision cannot be successfully accomplished. In no better way can we arrive at a fair starting point than by an application of rigid economy that will reduce expenditures to a minimum commensurate with the honor of a great state.

"Yet what we must deal with realities and not act rashly. We can have no part in a scheme of false economy which adds to the misery of the wards of the state, the sick, the insane and the unfortunate—those who are too weak even to protest. We must save indeed, but we must still adhere to the sound principle of keeping the commitments of our state. Economy does not mean stagnation. We can spend to preserve our investment in buildings and in humanity. While we chisel off the financial baronies which impede the progress of the ship of state, we must also make the sound progress in building and maintaining our state institutions. Turning from our basic financial policy to another focal point of state life, let us review the condition of law and order. In common with other states we have our problems of crime. Those who feel that they are beyond the pale of law have organized into gangs of bandits who boldly transgress the laws of God and man. The modern gun man and bomber protect organized crime and challenge the very pillars of our civilization. Nearly every form of illegal criminal conduct has an organized racket of some kind, while lawful business pays tribute. Crime has by no means surrendered. It is audacious, powerful and defiant. We must meet force with force. We must throw the whole impulse of all of our people into this warfare upon crime.

CHARITY BALL A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

What could be more alluring than a deep blue sky gleaming with a myriad of bright stars and then a graceful, proud looking yacht. (The Mercy H) from whose deck came soft musical wafters or fast, jumpy foxtrots. Well that was the setting for the Charity ball at the high school gym. New Year's eve that was not all either there were covered pergolas and clever awnings at the windows which hung over the entrance, and above a pergola were the figures 1931 while wicker furniture and floor lamps added to the ease and comfort of the guests.

At ten o'clock the dancing started with excellent music by The Play Boys of Lansing and from that time until 2 o'clock the merry crowd filled the floor, stopping only for lunch intermission. At twelve o'clock, as the Old Year was fading away and the New Year was joyously bursting forth, horns and all sorts of noise making favors filled the gym with a din and clamor that almost drowned out the loud peals of the bell that was proclaiming the arrival of the New Year.

Lunch was served by the committee in the domestic science room which had been made attractive for this part of the party.

Two lovely little girls, Misses Helen McLeod and Jean Miller sold charming little corsage bouquets to the admiring men for their ladies.

This party is an annual affair given by the Hospital Aid for the benefit of Mercy Hospital. It has always been one of the finest and loveliest social events of the holiday season and the party this year was up to the usual standard of excellence. There was not however the usual large crowd which heretofore has crowded the gym to capacity. When taking into consideration the amount of untiring effort which the committee gives to the decorations and the splendid and efficient work by the other committees, it is indeed regrettable that more people could not have participated in this delightful as well as worthy occasion.

Mrs. Lorraine Sparks as president of the Hospital Aid was general chairman; Mrs. C. G. Clippert, Chairman of decorations; Mrs. Fred Alexander, Chairman of tickets; Mrs. Oscar Schumann, Chairman of Publicity; Mrs. Louis Herbinson, Chairman of subscriptions and Mrs. Thomas Cassidy, Chairman of lunch.

A good deal of credit must be given Mrs. Clippert for achieving so beautiful a result with the ordinary expenditure of a little over thirty-five dollars. The Hospital Aid wishes also to express their gratitude to all who helped to make the party a success and to especially thank Mr. Cushman, Gail Clise, George Van Patten, Howard Schmidt and The Michigan Public Service Company.

JOHN BROCKMAN WRITES FROM FLORIDA

Burbank, Florida, Dec. 15, 1930.

Mr. O. P. Schumann, Grayling, Mich.
Dear Sir:
We have been in Florida for two months now, having arrived and settled well. I don't seem to be able to get used to the weather, as its just like spring or summer. I am wearing my summer clothing and a straw hat and spending my time working in the garden. I have planted my third planting of radishes and second of peas and have sowed carrots, onions, cabbage, beets and lettuce, and set out 360 strawberry plants, and now I am getting ready for potatoes, watermelons and the summer crops.

The first week I was here I saw them dip cattle. There are four dipping places within four miles of where I am living, and cattle are dipped every two weeks. Oranges are cheap here, $1.00 a bushel; grapefruit, two large ones for 5c. The soil here is black sandy loam, but low land and it had to be ditched ever so often or it will be flooded in the rainy season. Burbank is a small village with two streets—Main and Palm Avenue and nine houses, a store and postoffice. I live a half mile south of Burbank. The nearest town is Anthony seven miles west, then Oceola 16 miles southwest.

LOCALS BEAT BAY CITY, HARRISON

Grayling 42—Harrison 17

The Grayling Lumberjacks proved themselves to be more than solely an advertisement for winter sports, by romping through the Harrison Indies here last Friday, handing them quite a trimming by the lopsided score 42-17.

The first half was not a period that might be considered fast basketball, the score see-sawing back and forth on quite an even basis. The second half opened with such a change of pace on the part of the locals that a ticket-buyer may have thought himself in a state of illusion, wondering whether or not those red streaks that played before his eyes were actually athletic demonstrations or perhaps a hangover from New Year's cheer.

Amid a fury of passes, combined with splendid teamwork the local woodchoppers caged five field goals so suddenly that it was difficult to determine what the thing was all about.

The scoring spree started with the count 10 in their favor to 7 and continued right up to the final gun and during the last part of the last quarter upon substitution of the local reserves. Harrison Indies could not halt the campaign.

Bay Citizens Victims Tuesday Night

Grayling 32—Bay City 23

The Grayling Lumberjacks continued their winning streak by defeating the Tyler-Lowery basket ball squad of Bay City by the score of 32-23 at the local gym Tuesday night.

Bay City could not penetrate the Lumberjacks' defense and most of their scores were results of attempts from the center of the floor.

The local basketekers started good and continued right through the fray, penetrating Bay City's defense time and time again for short shots which netted them 32 points.

One unusual thing about the game was the fact that the five that started the game, played right straight through the four quarters and maintained such a fast pace that it was not necessary to make a substitution for Grayling.

The lineup:

Grayling Bay City
Neal EF Sweeney
H. LaGrow LF Arnold
Harrison C Sullivan
Brady RG Beattie
Robertson LG Bembroke
Final score: Grayling, 32; Bay City, 23. Referee: Milnes, Grayling.

ARGUMENT DOES NOT HOLD WATER

A critic of our constitutional right in the United States to own firearms, recently presented an exhaustive article in which he attempted to prove the necessity of laws to prohibit private ownership of firearms by showing that a larger proportion of people are murdered with guns in this country than in other nations.

By the same line of reasoning, he could probably show that more people per thousand are killed by automobiles in the United States, that more people per thousand are burned to death in fires and that more people per thousand meet with accident and death in constructing high buildings, at street crossings and in sports than in any other nation, all because our people are more active and generally more energetic, aggressive and careless than are the people of the rest of the world.

The critic of private ownership of firearms does not go on to show that in every time of national emergency, the United States has raised troops capable of using firearms, more rapidly than other nations. The argument that millions of law-abiding private citizens should be denied the ownership of firearms for either sport or protection on the theory that this would remedy the crime situation, the murder situation or the suicide situation is visionary, far-fetched and impractical.

Prohibitory legislation which penalizes the masses in the hope of correcting the few, has always in times past created conditions worse than those it sought to remedy.

The Shocking Christ

In the more modern translation of the New Testament, the translators have done a worth-while thing in injecting some of our more striking words into the language used. Good speed, for instance, speaks of the Pharisees being shocked at something the Master had said to them. And that brings to our minds the query as to whether Jesus was a mere sensationalist who got a thrill out of shocking people? The query is easily answered for there never has been anyone alive who was more serious about living life at its best, than the Christ. When he shocked people, it was the shock of the truth. He uttered. He was never asking Himself the modern questions—1. What will people think about it? 2. How will it affect my popularity? There was a blunt edge to his utterances, and he did not attempt to take the edge off. If he had, nobody would have been shocked. Did he not say to Himself—"I AM THE WAY." That is to say He came to the world faced with the task of building a new road for man's pilgrimage. And whenever you put in a new road, there is a certain amount of blasting.

Someone has said for us, "The Church that never shocks anybody will never save anybody." And we cannot imagine Jesus writing a letter of apology to the Pharisees when He was told that He had shocked them. Like the electric wire, the test of the vitality of a church is its capacity to "SHOCK." When it does not do that, it is a dead institution, and lacks those elements of the Master's message which are forever disturbing.

Wherever Religion has cooled off and become rutted into dry formulas and regulations, we can take it for granted that the message of Jesus with its ethical content which it possesses will continue to shock the Pharisees.

Norris and Other Radical Republicans Reject Third Party Suggestions—Wickersham Report Sure to Start Fight in Congress.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DEMOCRATS, no doubt, are highly edited by the way in which the row within the Republican party is being kept going. The radicals and regulars taking turns in swatting one another. But there seems small prospect that the insurgents will be led into accepting the suggestion of Dr. John Dewey, head of the League for Independent Action, that they form a third party with Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska as their leader and potential candidate for the Presidency. Norris, Borah and the rest of them are convinced that the formation of another party, under present electoral provisions, would be futile, and have so informed Doctor Dewey. Of course they remained Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania as a possible banner bearer of a third party in 1932, but undoubtedly he, like the other radical Republicans, knows on which side his bread is buttered.

Responding to a question, Norris said if the Democratic party should nominate a real progressive in 1932, many of the real Republican independents would support him.

"It is an open secret that the power interests are trying to nominate a Democrat who will be satisfactory to them," he stated. "Known enemies of the power trust are busy now trying to line up the Democratic party, for Owen D. Young. The trouble is that under our present system the people have to vote for one man or the other. Often it is a case of voting for the lesser of two evils. The people don't really select our Presidents. What we need is a system by which the rank and file can get control of a party any time they have a mind to."

There were various interesting developments in the quarrel between Norris and Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee. Treasurer Joseph R. Nutt of the committee demanded from Senator Nye an apology for his assertion that the national committee account used by Lucas was a "slush fund," and the North Dakotan, who was in Florida inspecting the Everglades as a possible site for a national park, admitted grudgingly that "further investigation may reveal that the $40,000 was not a slush fund." But both he and Senator Walsh, also at Miami Beach, had more hard things to say about the Lucas campaign to defeat Norris, and Nutt kept things going by accusing Nye of being a headline hunter. Representative Will R. Wood of Indiana took a hand in the row by the published assertion that Norris is not a Republican, but a demagogue, and that he is now assuming to be a dictator to the Democratic party.

ate enactment. The program on which the radical Republicans want action includes such controversial measures as the debarment plan for farm relief, Muscle Shoals and power, further relief measures including the Wagner unemployment bills, regulation of bus traffic, and increase in the income tax rates in the upper brackets.

QUICK relief for the drought sufferers is a certainty. The subcommittee of the house committee on appropriations approved an appropriation of $45,000,000 for this loan, the full amount authorized in the legislation already enacted, and the full committee was prepared to recommend this to congress immediately after the session was resumed. It was expected to be put through in both houses as a deficiency measure within a few days.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde appeared before the subcommittee to support the appropriation, although he reiterated his belief that $25,000,000 would be sufficient to care for the drought area. He asserted that he had no intention of approving any loans for human food, although the language of the authorization was construed during the congressional debates as being made broad enough to include such loans in cases of emergency. Mr. Hyde said the loans would be available for distribution within a week after the money is appropriated.

REPRESENTATIVE Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, in whose district West Point is situated, is urging the early passage of his bill appropriating $1,500,000 for the purchase of 15,000 acres additional for the military academy. Though the academy is considered by many the greatest military school in the world, high officers of army have asserted that it is greatly handicapped by insufficient ground, meager water supply and lack of facilities for training the cadets.

Gen. John J. Pershing has endorsed the move to acquire 15,000 acres of land adjacent to the academy. He said:

"If West Point is to continue to fulfill its mission of preparing its graduates for emergencies, greater facilities for the special training required must be provided."

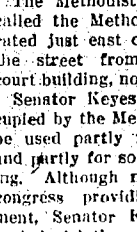

He urged that the government immediately acquire the land as recommended by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy.

AT THE instigation of President Hoover, the executives of the chief eastern railroads got together and arranged for consolidation into four major systems, the focal points of which are the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Van Sweringen lines. Mr. Hoover announced that he gave his endorsement to the plan as a means of aiding business recovery and improving railroad service. If certain minor details are agreed upon, and the scheme is approved by the Interstate Commerce commission, the merger may go through. However, opposition in congress developed at once, among the objectors being Senators Coughens and Wheeler, both members of the senate committee on Interstate commerce.

It is understood the executives agreed to allot the Reading and Jersey Central lines to the Baltimore and Ohio, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western to the New York Central, and the Lehigh Valley to the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate system, while the Pennsylvania will get trackage rights over both the Lehigh Valley and the Nickel Plate lines into Buffalo and a cash consideration.

IN ORDER to round out the federal building program in Washington, according to Senator Henry W. Keyes of New Hampshire, the property adjacent to the Capitol grounds now occupied by the Methodist building is necessary and may be purchased under condemnation by the government.

Keyes is chairman of the senate public buildings and grounds committee, so he speaks by the card. "The Methodist building, sometimes called the Methodist 'cathedral' is located just east of the Capitol, across the street from the new Supreme court building, now under construction. Senator Keyes said the ground occupied by the Methodist building could be used partly for open park space and partly for some government building. Although no bill is pending in congress providing for its acquisition, Senator Keyes intimated that such legislation was in prospect. The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, which JUDGE DAVID JENKINS of Youngstown, Ohio, put an end to proposed plans for the million dollar merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company when he granted to minority stockholders a permanent injunction restraining the combination. His decision was the climax of a bitter legal struggle that had been going on for six months and was a victory for Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who headed the minority stockholders of the Sheet and Tube company and carried the battle to court with charges of fraud.

SCIENTISTS from all parts of the United States and Canada spent the week in Cleveland, Ohio, attending the sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Allied Societies. They numbered more than five thousand and they read and listened to papers relating the latest researches into the secrets of the universe. The retiring presidential address was delivered by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winner in physics, his topic being Atomic Disintegration and Atomic Synthesis. He took issue with Sir James Jeans and others as to the "heat death" of the universe, the debated second law of dynamics, and from his deep study of the nature of cosmic rays, ventured the suggestion that there is as much reason to think the universe is constantly being rebuilt as that it is running down and doomed to extinction in some millions of years.

Doctor Millikan was presented by the new president, Thomas H. Morgan of the California Institute of Technology, after welcoming speeches by Dr. Robert E. Vinson, president of Western Reserve university, where many of the meetings were held, and Dr. William E. Wickenden, president of the Case School of Applied Science.

ONE of the features of New Year's day was the inauguration of Franklin Roosevelt as governor of New York for his second term. At 11:15 the governor started from the executive mansion in Albany for the state capitol, accompanied by his military staff; Maj. Gen. William N. Haskell, commanding officer of the New York National Guard; Rear Admiral William B. Franklin, commander of the naval militia, together with Troop B of the One Hundred and First cavalry. The ceremony took place at noon, Secretary of State Flynn administering the oath to Governor Roosevelt.

NEW YEAR'S day in the White House was the occasion for the annual reception that is traditional. President and Mrs. Hoover went to the Blue room at 11 o'clock in the morning and there greeted the members of the cabinet, justices of the Supreme court, army and navy officials and members of congress and of the diplomatic corps. At one o'clock the doors were thrown open and the general public was admitted. For hours the columns passed through the room, each one shaking hands with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover.

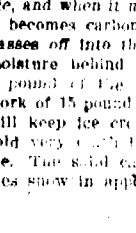

EUROPE'S latest dictatorship has been established in the little principality of Monaco by its ruler, Prince Louis II, and his people do not take it with good grace. Twice within a week there were political and popular demonstrations against the prince, partly because he had been spending most of his time living a gay life in Paris, and partly because of the decrease in the revenues from the Casino in Monte Carlo—the only revenues of the state. The first disorders were timed for the arrival of Louis from France, and he promptly called out his army of about one hundred men and suppressed them. But when he followed up this action by dissolving both legislative bodies, assuming a dictatorship abrogating the rights of franchise and elective representation granted the citizens twenty years ago with the indignation people again broke loose with mass meetings and parades of protest.

Again Louis mobilized his army, but it was generally believed that he was relying not on his own military strength but on an assurance of support from the French foreign office. Since 1911 France has maintained a kind of suzerainty over Monaco, and the prince was probably acting on French advice. There are plenty of French troops in the neighborhood if he should need their aid.

DEATH of Representative David J. O'Connell of Brooklyn induced the number of Democrats elected to the next house to 214. He had served in congress continuously since 1911 with the exception of one term. Japan lost one of its ablest diplomats in the death of Marquis Kinichi Komura, vice minister of overseas affairs. He leaves no heir to his title (C. 1931, Western Newspaper Union).

Use for "Dry Ice"
"Dry ice" is solidified carbon dioxide, and when it melts or absorbs heat it becomes carbon dioxide gas, which passes off into the air and leaves no moisture behind. It is claimed that 1 pound of dry ice will do the work of 15 pounds of ordinary ice and will keep ice cream and other foods cold very much longer than ordinary ice. This solid carbon dioxide resembles snow in appearance.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Wood and felt weather stripping properly applied, helps materially to keep out cold air. Apply it on the outside at the opening between the window sash and frame for the upper sash, or, better, on the inside for the lower sash. The felt should be close enough to windows or doors so that effort is necessary to move the window sash or to lock the doors. Wood and felt stripping at the bottom of doors reduces drafts along the floor. Strip felting may also be used like wood and felt stripping.

Because the 1930 drought has in many regions reduced food supplies for quail, grouse, pheasants, and other upland game birds, the Bureau of Biological Survey, U. S. Department of Agriculture, urges people to feed the birds this winter. Methods of feeding include leaving standing and shocked corn in the fields, providing grain in the shed, opening straw stacks regularly, spreading manure in the fields and scattering threshed grain with it, placing wheat and other grains in sheltered feeding places, and feeding ear corn.

It is better to winter coniferous seedlings by protecting them in the beds than by lifting and storing them, say horticulturists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In late fall, mulch the beds lightly with pine needles, leaves, or similar material that is free from weed seeds to guard against lifting or heaving of the roots by freezing and thawing. Protect the seedlings from rabbits and mice during the winter. Early spring is usually the best time for transplanting. Some kinds of seedlings may be large enough—from 3 to 6 inches—to transplant the first season, but slow-growing species such as spruce and pine may require two or more years in the seedbed.

If your roses need protection during the winter, draw the soil up around the plants to a height of 10 inches or more. If roses have not been pruned for more than a year, it is well to do some now, when the leaves are off. Take out old wood, then begin at the outer end of the branches of the young wood, gradually working toward the root. A

RAILROADS ASK EQUALITY, NOT FAVORS

The present depression has brought the railroad situation to a crisis. The falling off in freight and passenger business has focused public attention on certain basic railroad problems which must be solved in the near future if the American people wish to continue to receive the high type of railroad service they have enjoyed. In addressing 300 manufacturers in New Britain, Connecticut, three high executives of Eastern railroads said that all the rail lines need is a fair field for competition and no favors. They urged more ample legislation covering commercial transportation by bus or truck with adequate authority for railroads to operate such facilities without discrimination; that railroads be not forced to compete with subsidized government operated ships and barges over free waterways; to oil fields, shall not be faced with a competitor who can build a pipe line when the railroads are forbidden to do the same thing. As to the Panama Canal, the railroads object to the prohibition in the Panama Canal act against their engaging in transportation by water on the same terms as their competitors, and, secondly, they emphatically protest against the government engaging in such transportation and performing the same at a loss and assessing the general taxpayer to make good the loss. These railroad executives asserted that the lines were struggling to maintain their standing in the face of competition which was less regulated, and constant rate reductions forced by the Interstate Commerce Commission. They pointed out the unfairness of the recapture clause of the Transportation Act by which a railroad making more than six per cent in any year on what the government says its property is worth must give half of the excess to the government. The railroads have been made the plaything of politics until the very life of the industry is threatened.

DON'T FORGET THE FURNACE

Many people pay little attention to the furnace unless the house gets too hot or too cold, but it should be attended to at regular intervals, say engineers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Don't shake down a fire more than twice a day; usually twice is sufficient, in the morning and late afternoon. Unless the fire has been burning hard continuously and coal has been fed frequently, take care not to shake it too much. Don't shake live coals through the grate. In mild weather let some ashes accumulate on the grate. Clean out ashes under the grate immediately after shaking. Ashes that accumulate in the ash pit prevent air circulation, hinder combustion, and damage the grates. Don't shake down a fire until fresh coal has kindled. In the morning, it is well to open the smoke-pipe draft damper and the ash-pit draft damper, throw on a little fresh coal, and let it catch well. When it is glowing, shake the grate back and forth with a short, quick movement. Don't turn the grates completely over unless it is necessary to remove large clinkers.

Many farmers cut brush in summer or early fall because they think it is not likely to sprout again if cut at these times, but it is just as effective to cut it in winter, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. There will always be some second and even third growth regardless of when it is cut.

ALPENA GARMENT WORKERS GO ON STRIKE

Rather than to submit to a 10% cut in wages, the women and girls of the Alpena Garment Co. factory went on a strike. They put on a demonstration of protest. The Cheboygan Observer in its issue of Jan. 2nd said:

Just at a time when it would seem that most anyone would be willing to exert himself or herself a little more to keep in contact with a job that paid something to help support the family, and at a time when factory management must face a lot of vexing problems to keep wheels turning and find enough money to meet the payroll, seems a might poor time to strike, but that is what the women and young girls employed at the Alpena Garment Co. factory have done.

Commenting on the affair Mr. Randall, president of the Co. in a letter said:

New York, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1930.

The Alpena Garment Co., Inc., Alpena, Mich.

As president of the Alpena Garment Co. I feel I should make a public statement just at this time to the actions of some of our employees, who are unbelievable, unfeeling and ungrateful.

Since this business was organized in 1920 we have always been very fair with all employees and this same feeling will continue. Today our average wage for girls is nearly three times as great as compared with the prevailing wage in Alpena in 1920. We have almost constantly maintained a 44 hour week as compared with most of our competitors working their help 54 hour each week. Only a very small percentage of the time have we worked more than 46 hours each week.

With the depression hitting this country in September, 1929, our business only knew what we went through. Rather than lay off our help we piled up over fifty thousand dresses which had to be sold later at a terrific loss. The whole year of 1930 has been a struggle to keep running full with the result of little or no profit. There isn't one concern in this business which has run more than 75 per cent during 1930. Many were closed completely as much as three months. Very few are running 50 per cent today. It is necessary we make our product better and we must have cooperation from all employed by us. I am commencing to think our employees do not realize there is a severe depression in this country. Our reduction of 10 per cent in all wages is not unreasonable at this time and this action was decided upon by myself and was done only after very careful thought and consideration as mentioned previously in my letter of November 1st to all employees. I thought it better to run full if possible and sell our product at a loss than to lay off our help and get a good price for our product with the result of possibly only running our plants three days a week.

Our efficiency man, Mr. Morris Schmelzer was secured by us on account of his qualifications as an expert in the cotton dress industry. His knowledge to produce efficient ly and without waste and I personally think there is not one employee who has not learned at least something as a result of his knowledge. Mr. Schmelzer has had nothing to do with the 10 per cent wage reduction which went into effect on December 1st. We must insist on good work and must have cooperation from all employees. We are seriously interested in the survival of this business and we all know a bankrupt industry is of no value to any community. Present conditions are responsible for the changes we have made and when things become normal we will be among the first to change with it. It is unfortunate that some of our employees act quickly and apparently without thought. We want all to know we are conducting this business as best we know how. Yours respectfully, J. T. Randall, Pres.

SAFETY PROGRAMS CARRIED OUT IN SCHOOL

In connection with the safety work which has been developed in the schools of Grayling within recent weeks by the Detroit Automobile Club, J. George O'Brien, manager of the Northern Division of the Club, announced today that safety educational programs would be carried on in connection with the regular school courses.

The Automobile Club has prepared a series of safety studies in the form of looseleaf lessons and safety posters. The loose leaf lessons are not to be offered as a special safety study but are worked into the school curriculum at the teacher's discretion. These lessons are mailed monthly.

The safety poster which is also sent each month to the Grayling schools is pictorially illustrated and is printed in three colors. Each month it depicts some particular phase of the conditions of the highways. The school children study these posters, analyze them and with the aid of the teachers solve the various safety problems they present.

According to H. O. Rounds, safety and traffic director of the Detroit Automobile Club, safety must be inculcated in the subconscious mind of the child. He declared that it was the subconscious mind that directed the child to and from school, along the highways and on the playground. "His mind properly trained along safety thoughts," Mr. Rounds said, "the child unconsciously is aware of existing danger when walking on the sidewalks or crossing streets or on the school grounds. Without thinking, he looks both ways before crossing the street, does not run between automobiles parked along the curb, avoids dangerous intersections and is alert at all times."

"During 1929 more than 160,000 children in the United States were involved in traffic accidents which necessitated the absence of from one day to many weeks from school. Ten per cent of these children injured were on their way to or from school. This accident list can be reduced, and Michigan is doing a large part in keeping its accident total below normal."

With the inauguration of this safety program, the Grayling schools are entered in a state-wide competition between schools in the Club's territory for various loving cups offered to the schools doing the best safety work. Fifty-six loving cups were presented during 1929. A special cup was also presented to the winning staff which showed the greatest activity during the past year. Schools showing special interest in this safety work are given every possible assistance and the Safety and Traffic Division each year loans out safety plays which are produced in many schools throughout the State.

SCHOOL NOTES

Mr. Cushman Absent
Mr. Cushman is very ill from the effects of a tonsil operation. He has been absent from and is missed to a great extent by his classes. Everyone hopes sincerely that his illness will be short so that he can be with us again.

Back to Work
Well, well, seems queer to get back to work again. Everyone is as restless as if it were the first of September. But this can not last, for everyone is getting ready for the coming final exams which are not far off.

Fourth Grade
Miss Hermann, teacher
We are glad to be back in school again after a two week vacation. Our ceiling has been plastered and they are planning to decorate this week end.

We started the New Year right by having perfect attendance so far this week.
We have been learning how to write "thank you" letters for language so we may show folks how much we appreciate our gifts.
May we as teachers resolve this year to forget the past and to do just a bit better work as teacher than we have ever done before.
First of all may we have an understanding heart. Such that we may have a real insight into children's lives and into human nature in general that we may be able to treat every child, whatever his family or possessions, as a potentially worthwhile citizen.

Eighth Grade
The Eighth Grade held a class meeting on Tuesday, December 26th, 1930.
Miss Berry is our class advisor. The following officers were elected: President—Sam Gust. Vice President—Jean Peterson. Sec. Treas.—Josephine Robarge. Reporter—George Lietz.
We also discussed a party that we are going to have in January.

Wiscracka
Miss Dorr—Is Karl Sherman a fast worker?
Student—He's so fast that he has to have a water-cooled typewriter with an asbestos ribbon.
Russians are described as being men of very few words. And after looking at a Russian dictionary, we don't blame them.

Teacher—Why don't you answer me?
D. D.—I did. I shook my head.
Teacher—But you don't expect me to hear it rattle away up here, do you?

Fifth Grade
Miss Douglas, teacher
We looked forward to the Christmas vacation with a great deal of joy and pleasure.
The grade enjoyed decorating their room; we also had a lovely tree.
In art we helped Old Santa by making some very pretty vases for Christmas gifts.

Good Sportsmanship
"Sportsmanship is that quality of honor that desires always to be courteous, fair, and respectful, and it is interpreted in the conduct of players, spectators, coaches, and school authorities."

1. Remember that any spectator represents his school the same as does your athlete.
2. Recognize that the good name of the school is more valuable than any game won by unfair play.
3. Respond with enthusiasm to the calls of the cheer leader for yells in support of the team especially when it is losing.
4. Learn the rules of the various athletic games so that either as spectators or critics they will be intelligent.
5. Accept decisions of officials without question.
6. Express disapproval of rough play or poor sportsmanship on the part of players representing the school.
7. Express disapproval of any abusive remarks from the sidelines.
8. Recognize and applaud an exhibition of fine play or good sportsmanship on the part of the visiting team.
9. Be considerate of the injured on the visiting team.
10. Insist on the courteous treatment of the visiting team as it passes through the street or visits the local school building, and extend the members every possible courtesy.
11. Acquaint the adults of the community and the grade pupils with the ideals of sportsmanship that are acceptable to the high school.
12. Impress upon the community its responsibility for the exercise of self-control and fair play at all athletic contests.
13. Advocate that any spectator who continually evidences poor sportsmanship be requested not to attend future contests.
14. Insist on fair, courteous, and truthful accounts of athletic contests in local and school papers.
15. Be familiar with the state rules of eligibility and support their strict enforcement.
16. Encourage the full discussion of fair play, sportsmanship, and school spirit through class work and auditorium programs in order to discover ways in which students and schools can develop and demonstrate good sportsmanship.

Candy is a good energy food, and can be eaten by older children, but always in small quantities and only after—not between—meals. The best kind of sweets for children are not too concentrated and irritating, and contain, along with sugar, other materials such as minerals, which the child needs.

WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW IS HISTORY IN THE MAKING

One of the big newspapers, in an effort to account for and justify the predominance of crime news in its columns, defined news as "action," and explained that there was more "action" day by day in the criminal world than elsewhere.

That big newspaper may be right, but we do not believe our readers are interested in the "action" of the underworld of the big cities. We do believe they are interested in the events that are making the history of our nation and of the world in general. It is history in the making that we are giving to our readers week after week in the department headed "Weekly News Review" written by Edward W. Pickard.

EDWARD W. PICKARD

This is an editorial interpretation of the events that are making history, of the events that have an influence, directly or indirectly, on ourselves. It covers the kind of events that our intelligent citizens talk about, that they wish to be informed about so they may talk intelligently.

Edward W. Pickard, who prepares this feature for our columns, is one of the highly trained newspaper observers and writers of the nation. He has a background of many years of experience, of a very broad education, of personal contact with men of affairs of this country, and travel and study in many foreign lands. From his school and college days he has been a constant student of world history of the past, of world and national history in the making, of the men and events of our generation.

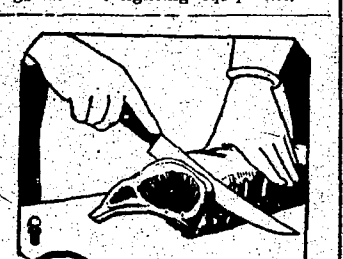

Mr. Pickard's foreign travels have but intensified his love for and appreciation of America. He is intensely American, and sees world events through the eyes of an American. He writes of events from the standpoint of their effect on our own land.

Our readers will find in this "Weekly News Review" a feature that is very much worthy of their careful reading each week. It will keep them closely in touch with the events of consequence, and they will find in it a sure foundation for any discussion they may have with their neighbors of the real and important news of each week.

NEED MORE TRACTORS AND TRUCKS TO FIGHT FIRES

Wanted; more tractors and trucks. This seemed to be the consensus of opinion among the district fire wardens of Michigan's forest fire fighting force, during a recent trip made by lower peninsula wardens through the country north of the Straits. The opinion was also expressed that more trained personnel available for supervisory work on forest fires would result in a savings in the amount of public funds spent annually for impressed labor, according to officials returning to Lansing.

The trip was made with members of the Lansing office of the State Conservation Department and representatives of the U. S. Forest Service. Inspections were made of all upper peninsula district headquarters buildings and fire fighting equipment.
